CALL FOR BLOGGERS

BLOG IT OR LOSE IT!

You may have heard of us from the PRIMED guide. We bring you great up to date info on the issues facing queer trans guys and the guys that dig them. Well now we're looking for a few good bloggers to join us in spreading the word about trans guys and sexual health.

You don't have to be Canadian. You don't even have to be trans. You definitely don't have to speak/write in English. Whether you want to talk about HIV, sex work, hookups, drugs, body image, fat shaming, poverty, partying, mental health, disability, racism, or anything else, if it has to do with trans guys and sex, we want to hear it. And we pay!

So if this sounds like you, send us a blast at gbqtransmen@gmail.com.

THE FINE PRINT

Anyone published through Queertransmen.org will receive full credit, retention of rights to republish elsewhere, and link-back to their website/social media channels. If you're interested in publishing with us, please keep the following in mind; If you have written before, we'd love to see samples of your work, whether it's in a popular magazine, on social media, or your personal web space. If you want link-backs, or have an image you'd like to see on your post, please let us know and send us your specific requirements. While we always love multi-part posts, most should be in the 800-1000 word range. All published posts pay $50.00, regardless of length. The blog posts we will include will depend on how many submissions we get, equity, and educational goals.
